BABY BECKWITH WINS AWARD OF $500 A MONTH

Providence, Feb. 1 (U.S.A.)—Lawrence Beckwith, celebrated baby of California, will receive $500 a month from the estate of his mother until all legal phases are straightened out.

The child, who was born in California and adopted by Miss Anita Hodgkin, will receive the money through Miss Hodgkin under a decision today of Judge George F. Stone in Municipal Court.

Edward A. Stockwell, who had been the Rhode Island guardian, asked Judge Stone to make the ruling, saying he did not know what amount should be paid.

Baby Beckwith's mother died in California. After the adoption by Miss Hodgkin a long legal battle over the custody of the baby and the estate began.

WOMAN AND 2 GIRLS INJURED IN REVERE

A woman and two girls were injured today when a sedan and coupe came together at Broadway and Cheever streets, Revere. Mrs. Eddie Moore, wife of Gilbert S. Moore, of Palmer street, Arlington, carrying the coupe with her husband, was out by flying glass and badly shaken up. She was treated by a nearby physician but refused hospital attention.

Two daughters of Frank G. Howland, of Woodlawn street, Everett, were reported injured to the police by their father, driver of the sedan. The girls were bound for Lynn with friends at the wheel.

FIRE SWEEPS HOME NEAR STATE HOUSE

Fire near the State House today caused damage of $1,000 to the four-story brick dwelling at No. 41 Hancock street. The blaze started in rubbish in the basement and was discovered by Patrolman Michael Kenney of Joy street division. Damage of $2,500 resulted from another early morning fire in Cann's restaurant, Canal street, where a cigarette butt was the cause, according to the police.

ALSO 'BRIBED' COAST GUARD FOR CODE

A secret chart showing the location of coast guard rum patrol boats in New England waters and the radio code used by these vessels in communication to their base, were supplied to John Magnus, Black Bay cruise owner, a government witness testified today at the trial of Magnus and seven others in Federal court on conspiracy and smuggling charges.

The witness, Robert E. Taylor, former coast guard boatman, testified he supplied Magnus with this secret information and in return was paid $100 in Magnus' garage.

Before Taylor took the stand, one of the nine original defendants, John Crowley of Mattapan, pleaded guilty. Sentence was postponed until the trial of the remaining eight defendants comes to an end.

"Magnus said his purpose in getting this information from me was to use his own private radio station on Cape Cod to inform his own vessels on Rum Row the whereabouts and activities of Coast Guard destroyers and patrol boats," said Taylor.

"From the secret chart, I drafted a map of the locations in Magnus' garage in July, 1923."

"Magnus also asked me about one 'Happy' Wilson who was then being named as a witness ready to appear at a government inquiry. Magnus said his purpose was to shut Wilson up and ship him to a schooner at sea. I recall that Wilson did not appear at that inquiry."

Francis P. McIntyre, a previous witness, testified to accepting more than $2,000 in cash to permit the use of his patrol boat to guard the unloading of liquor from schooners. McIntyre also is a former Coast Guard boatman.

McIntyre said that $500 was paid him by Magnus, $1,000 by William Martin, alias "Big Bill" Bowen, and the rest by John W. Dugg, former Coast Guard boatman.

"As commander of the patrol boat C-17 in 1923, I picked the schooner 'The Alone' 10 miles east of Boston Light, while the speedboat Peg came from shore for a cargo of liquor," said McIntyre.

PHONE PROFITS UP 7 P. C. IN LAST YEAR

Net earnings of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company were 7 per cent. higher in 1924 than in 1923, and the surplus for the last year was $432,300, President Martin Jones today reported in the annual statement of the company.

Economies in operating costs were largely responsible for the gain, Mr. Jones declared, pointing out that gross earnings increased only 4 per cent, as compared with the much larger increase in net income.

Property losses due to the flood are estimated at $10,000. During the year 205,621 telephones were installed, while 177,493 were taken out, a net gain of 28,128.

The company's surplus is entirely inadequate as a protection against the exigencies of business, while the rate of net earnings on invested capital is also extremely low, President Jones asserted.

"Without in any way discussing the different theories, legal or economic, with respect to the valuation of public utility property for fixation of rates, it is with great attention to the extremely low rate of return on actual book cost of the property," he stated.

"During 1924 the average book cost of plant, personal equipment and working capital was $12,000,000 and net earnings from operations were 2.67 per cent. thereof, a rate of return far below what is commonly earned in businesses having similar risks."

PEGGY MARSH

London chorus girl, formerly Annabelle Greenough of Chelsea, as a result of a war time romance with the grandson of Marshall Field of Chicago, became involved in litigation over the Field estate. She has been granted a divorce from Keld R. G. Fenwick of Bourne, Lincolnshire.

PEGGY MARSH LOSES ANOTHER HUSBAND

London, Feb. 1 (A.P.)—Peggy Marsh, the London chorus girl, who as a result of a wartime romance with Henry Field, Jr., grandson of Marshall Field, Chicago merchant, became involved in litigation over the Field estate, has been granted a divorce.

The petition was granted Monday in the London divorce court. It was filed in the name of Mrs. Annabelle Bertha Fenwick, who was a widow at the time of her marriage in January, 1923, to Keld Robert George Fenwick of Wigham Hall, Bourne, Lincolnshire. She charged her husband with misconduct. The suit was not defended.

Peggy Marsh in 1915 met Henry Field, Jr., and a romance followed which lasted a year. Afterward he married Miss Nancy Perkins, a niece of the Langhorne sisters of Virginia. He died in June, 1917.

Miss Marsh brought suit in 1919 against the Field estate for her son, Henry Anthony Marsh, who was conceded to be a natural son of Henry Field. Two years later the Supreme Court of Illinois decided against the baby's claim on the ground that the will specifically excluded illegitimate offspring from inheritance. She did receive, however, $10,000 in the settlement of Henry Field's estate.

Miss Marsh married Albert L. Johnson, a nephew of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, at Greenwich, Ct., January 5, 1921. He died in New York in 1924.

Peggy Marsh's real name is Annabelle Greenough and she is a chorus girl. She emerged from chorus obscurity through the story of her romance with the heir to the Marshall Field millions and she again emerged into prominence by her marriage to Johnson. She has many relatives in and around Boston.

It's No Crime to Violate Dry Law—Gen. Peabody

"I DO not call it criminal to break the Volstead Act. The law is unenforceable, and the bad results far outweigh the advantages of this evil measure. It has not decreased crime or drunkenness."—Statement by Gen. Francis Peabody at hearing on dry law petitions at State House today.

They said to high-spirited Young America, "You shall not take a drink." That is a challenge for them to go and get a drink as soon as possible.

The increase in drinking among the young people since the passage of the act has been very great. The number of cocktail shakers sold has increased enormously. People are drinking fifty liquor instead of beer and light wines. The consequence have been appalling.

DRINKING "BAD LIQUOR"

"The youth of our country are going around with flasks of liquor which is harmful if not poisonous. The result of all of this has been the corruption of youth, it has made law breakers and hypocrites of the people. It is raising up conditions we must abhor. Instead of the paradise that was predicted within five years by the prohibition supporters, we have the reverse. It is perfectly futile to see that drunkenness has been reduced. The 18th Amendment has not decreased crime, drunkenness, or has it decreased the legal phase of both bills.

Alexander Lincoln discussed the legal phase of both bills. Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of the ex-governor, and Mrs. Mary Bigelow, endorsed the petition. John Van Vleet, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor, who said the present form of government might be criticized if the people have not given an opportunity to vote on such matters.

Harry H. Chamberlain of Worcester said they were good law breakers in Massachusetts as well as good bootleggers. He referred to Paul Harvey, Robert Hood and the farmers of Lexington in the past, as being examples of excellent law breakers, and his own grandfather and granduncle who ran an underground railway during the Civil War.

COMES NEAR "TYRANNY"

"It would destroy the republic if America did not have people who run up against tyranny," he said. "If you try to impose laws on people which they do not want, you are approaching a system of tyranny which will be overturned of itself."

President Van Vleet endorsed the State Federation of Labor had gone on record in favor of this legislation, and all the good bodies had done the same.

"There is a question," he said, "whether the present form of government shall continue without dissolution, disintegration or annihilation if the people do not have the opportunity to vote on such matters."

Mrs. Guild said she believed every good citizen had been told, and Mrs. Bigelow told of arrests in Europe where the only persons intoxicated

Those young men take girls out on petting parties and the results are appalling.

Another result has been the establishment of a huge army of bootleggers. There are good bootleggers, I suppose, but most of them deal in liquor that at least lacks maturity.

"Many of them sell stuff that makes men blind, if it doesn't kill them. This is undermining the health of the American people. I wouldn't make a sweeping condemnation of all bootleggers. Some try to sell good stuff, but most sell gin and whiskey instead of alcohol and claret."

There is one thing worse than the bootlegger that the eighteenth amendment established and that is the hypocrite. There are no good hypocrites.

Since the passage of the eighteenth amendment there have been more murders than in any other period. Chicago they have increased from one per day to two or at least one and a half per day.

Another result has been the corruption among prohibition agents. The government doesn't dare put out a statement containing the number of prohibition agents discharged because of corruption.

"The result of all of this has been the corruption of youth, it has made law breakers and hypocrites of the people. It is raising up conditions we must abhor. Instead of the paradise that was predicted within five years by the prohibition supporters, we have the reverse."

"It is perfectly futile to see that drunkenness has been reduced. The 18th Amendment has not decreased crime, drunkenness, or has it decreased the legal phase of both bills."

were Americans. She said she was originally in favor of national prohibition, but was ashamed of conditions.

"The people who are strongest for prohibition," she said, "are the most champagne in Paris, and I have seen them," said Mrs. Bigelow.

Others who appeared in favor were Julian R. Codman, Francis R. Bangs, Mr. Charles H. T. Brown, Guy Warren, David P. Sibley and Talbot Aldrich, son of Thomas Bailey Aldrich, famous poet and writer.

DIAMOND RING ROBBER

SUSPECT HELD IN $3,000

Charles Mertens, 30, of Chicago, charged with the spectacular larceny of a $2,500 diamond ring from the window of the jewelry store of Frank J. Andrews Company, Washington and Water streets, on Saturday night, pleaded not guilty in Municipal court today. The case was continued one week with bonds fixed at $5,000.

The defendant was arrested by Sergeant Frank Gilman and special officer Robert Lynch of Division 2 and the police say he was picked from a lineup by a witness of the robbery. According to the witness, a circular piece of glass was cut out of the window, the thief reached in, seized the ring and slipped off in an automobile parked nearby.

BOOTLEGGING HALTED IN CHICAGO, DRY CLAIM

Chicago, Feb. 1 (A.P.)—Beer, wine and alcohol dealers no longer reap the enormous profits they once collected in Chicago, a Federal prohibition officer told W. C. T. U. campaign strategists today.

"The gangsters have abandoned the beer and alcohol racket," Captain John G. Wallace declared. "They have gone back to their old game of gambling and vice, because the liquor traffic is unprofitable. The government prohibition officers have driven them to cover."

SECOND NIGHT OF OPERA MOST BRILLIANT, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Dowagers Take Lead in Effectiveness of Costumes; Garden Proves Magnet to Crowd the House

WITH MARY GARDEN THE MAGNET, GRAND OPERA'S SECOND NIGHT WAS A repetition of the premiere for numbers, brilliancy and the semitantal picture of operatic gorgeousness in which Boston indulges itself yearly, for the brief two weeks of the Chicago Company's stay. Dignified dowagers, magnificent matrons, important young married women, charming young girls, with their escorts dancing attendance, all lent enchantment to the scene, with the palm for extreme decorativeness going to the dowagers.

LET YOUR OPERA GLASSES SWING THE LENGTH OF THE GORGEOUS CRESCENT, the resplendent horseshoe that is intrinsically the grand opera, to glimpse these dignified dowagers. You may see Mrs. Charles Goddard Weld, in delicately tinted gown of silver and green, light as seafoam; diamonds in her hair and sparkling at throat and wrist and corsage. The dignified, stately dowager is entertainingly brilliant each evening of the opera season. Not so very far away is Mrs. George H. Munk, in black velvet combined with silver.

NEXT IS MRS. HENRY DUBOIS TUDOR, GRACIOUS AND ELEGANT IN BLACK taffeta decorated in quaintly formal true lovers' knots and wearing some of the magnificent antique jewelry that fills her jewel box. And so, swinging the lorgnette still further along the crescent we see Mrs. M. Graeme Houghton, entertaining a party of the great ones in Box No. 25. Very regal and essentially epitome of dignity is Mrs. Houghton, her gown of ruby velvet in formal mode, and her jewels diamonds in pendants, bracelets and ear drops.

MRS. WALLACE GOODRICH, IN SILVER GREEN AND pearls; Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, in black chiffon and satin, with diamonds and pearls; Mrs. George S. Mumford, in amethyst cuffs and tulle; Mrs. Horace Blaney, in rose-gold lame, with several strands of pearls and diamonds about her throat and diamond pins in her perfectly coiffed hair; Mrs. John A. Hill, in apatite blue beaded wrap and gown of silver luster; Mrs. George Setridge, in black velvet; Mrs. Frederick Strong Mosley, in black velvet and silver ornaments set with lapis, are in the dignified dowager class and among its chiefest ornaments.

IMPORTANT YOUNG MARRIED WOMEN BY THE SCORE WERE in the distinguished audience that applauded Garden, Ausera and Polare to the echo. Mrs. George Swift was a chaste matron, with pearls. Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman was in black velvet, with pearls. Mrs. Francis J. Cates, in lustrous transparent velvet, was very effective. Mrs. Harris Livermore's solid tinsel green silk was matched by her jade earrings and necklace. Mrs. J. D. Cameron Bradley wore black, with wrap of carnel and mink. Mrs. Ralph Menard was in coral pink. Mrs. Schler Welch's velvet gown in black was in the sophisticated mode, and her jewels were pearls.

IN THE H. WENDELL ENDICOTT BOX, MRS. PHILIP SALTONSTALL'S gold sequin gown was all agitter, and the hostess herself was lovely in silver frock and a petunia pink silken shawl to match the enormous silken flower at one shoulder. Mrs. William Gordon Stone, in a smart velvet frock, had elegant ornaments of brilliant at her shoulders. Miss Beatrice Howell, in an exquisite black velvet frock, essayed the very formal mode with white gloves to the shoulder. Next Saturday, before an assemblage of the select in Emmanuel Church, Miss Howell will be the central figure, and a very pleasing one, in a most important wedding ceremony. She marries Frederick L. Doherty on that day.

IN MRS. HINKLEY WELCH'S box, in the very center of the horseshoe, Mrs. Welch, very lovely in peach velvet and chiffon, had her radiant young daughter, Miss Barbara Welch, wearing a lustrous yellow taffeta, in the crisp silhouette. The Cameron Kemble Winslow family was a decorative unit in the opera belvedere of color and luxury. Mrs. Winslow was in black velvet, and her complexion lovely daughters. Miss Emeline and Miss Natalie wore smart frocks and precious jewels. Miss Emeline in rose and Miss Natalie in black velvet with diamond shoulder clasps. Miss Louise Fessenden's gown was a glowing absolute green, to bring out the golden lights in her flirty hair.

DIAMONDS GLINTED AT the younger Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird's throat, and her gown was chianti red chiffon. Mrs. Malcolm Whitman's old and striking gown of embroidered crepe had a motif of rose that found its complement in her jewels and her tiny red satin slippers. Miss Evelyn Winder wore the alwhite ensemble, ermine wrap and white frock, and Miss Vera Stearns did the same. Miss Stearns' mother, Mrs. Harry Nason, wore a handsome creation of rhinestones in formal pattern on black. Mrs. James Reed wore a black sequined gown with diamonds and gardenias.

UP IN THE HORSESHOE Mrs. Richard Thorndike was a brilliant figure, in ruby velvet gown and a long strand of diamonds about her throat. Mrs. Frederick Bradley's black velvet was made still more handsome by heavy gold ornaments, to match her antique gold necklace. Miss Elizabeth Livermore's pale green frock followed in time her mother's. Mrs. Harris Livermore's embroidered silk. Miss Nancy Voss was in vivid green chiffon, a "daisy" color, excellently effective on a dark-eyed, black haired girl. Miss Olga French, husband wore a black chiffon frock and fasciated velvet wrap.

MRS. JAFFRAY DE HAUTEVILLE BELLE'S gown was white lace over green, and she wore about her shoulders a white shawl richly embroidered. Mrs. Roger Warner's silver and carnel wrap enveloped a gown of lame in one of the new "laddie" (this Paris emma-on and Boston adoma. Miss Salt, Batelle wore silver and black. Mrs. Morgan Butler's elegant blonde head and gown from the beaming folds of a superb ermine wrap, and her

FOR STRAWS THAT BLOW In Fashion's breeze I might mention Mrs. William Mott and the Queen Anacoll setting off her tapers in silver lace. Or mention Miss Helga Gray's jet black wrap that frothed up at the throat into a crystal white feather boa. Or Mrs. Willis Shepherd's "laddie" daisy blue gown, richly embroidered. Or spools of deep white fox, softly warm and extremely modish, worn by Miss Isabelle Grandin. Miss Virginia Parker's daisy beauty vastly became her frock of chiffon in peacock blue, and her gold and green wrap with fish collar.

HIGH FINANCE IN SINGLAI OIL IS BARED

Washington, Feb. 1 (A. P.)—A deal by which the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company bought from the Continental Trading Company for $400,000 a contract which gave it $2,000,000 was disclosed to the public before the Senate committee investigating the disposal of the profits of the hastily formed and now dead Continental concern.

The continental, whose guarantors included Harry F. Sinclair and Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, had contract to sell oil to the Sinclair Company for $1.15 per barrel. It had sold $1.25.

A. L. Carlson, secretary and treasurer of the Sinclair Crude, who was placed under severe fire by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, press editor, finally testified to the $400,000 contract, but told the committee "he did not make it."

Part of the profits of the Continental company, the government claims, found their way to Albert B. Fall after he leased Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair.

WHY OIL MEN ARE RICH

This company is said to have made millions out of oil deals.

After the Continental purchased oil in the United States for $1.50 a barrel, it contracted to sell it back to the Sinclair company at $1.75 on the same day, and Carlson held this was proper.

"When you signed the contract with the Continental Trading Company, what did you know about its financial affairs?" Senator Walsh asked.

"Nothing," Carlson replied. "If I should walk into your office and ask you to sign a $20,000,000 contract with a Montana company, would you do it without investigation?"

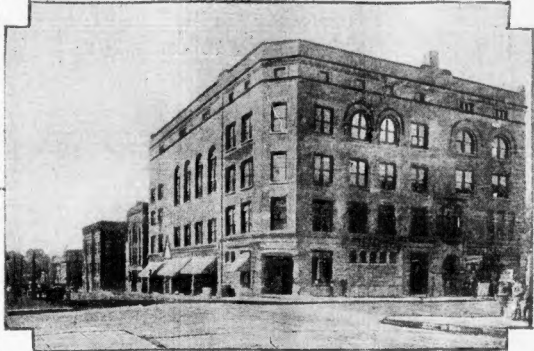

"You will find from the contract that it was guaranteed by our principal directors."

"Who are they?"

"Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Stewart."

"Now we have some kind of a reasonable explanation," Walsh observed. "Had you ever heard of the Continental Trading Company before?"

"What did you know about the contract of May 26, 1922, by which the Sinclair Crude Oil & Gas acquired the Continental Trading Company?"

"I knew nothing of it until it was presented to us for purchase."

"At that time what amount of the $20,000,000 barrels of oil had been delivered?"

"$2,911,711 barrels."

Previous testimony showed that 23,333,333 barrels of oil was contracted for by the Continental from the Humphreys interests at Denver.

"That was your part?"

"Yes."

"And the Prairie Oil and Gas?"

"I don't know, but they took more than we did."

As the Democratic prosecutor fired away at him, Carlson leaned back in the witness chair, answering in a low voice.

Walsh developed that the Sinclair Crude bought the Continental contract for $400,000, thereby saving $2,000,000 it would have had to pay that company if it had continued to pay the Continental $1.75 a barrel for all the Canadian firm was buying for $1.50.

"That looks like changing double eagles for dimes," Walsh exclaimed. "How did you come to make such a profitable contract?"

"I didn't make it," Carlson retorted.

"I first saw it when Mr. Phillips handed it to me." The reference was to H. L. Phillips, then and now president of the Sinclair Crude.

STANDARD OWNS MIDWEST.

Carlson volunteered that the total oil "run to both companies—Sinclair Crude and Prairie Oil & Gas—had been 11,160,000 barrels to date.

It then was accused and E. G. Seubert, president of the Indiana Standard, was called. He has held his office since last March, but been with the company since 1917.

"What is the relationship between the Standard of Indiana and the Midwest Refining Company?"

Walsh asked.

"The Standard owns practically all of the Midwest stock," Seubert replied.

"What part did it, S. Oiler have in the stock industry?"

"To my knowledge, none at all."

Oiler, whose home is in Toronto and who is reported to be in Europe, organized the Continental.

Seubert testified the Indiana Standard had no relationship with the Pacific except to purchase oil, but that it owns fifty per cent. of the Sinclair Pipe Line Company.

'RUNNER' FOR LAWYER GETS JAIL TERM

Carman Marcell of Somerville, found guilty by a jury of soliciting business for a lawyer, was sentenced today in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court to four months in the House of Correction by Judge Hugo Delany.

District Attorney Robert T. Baughwell continued Marcell's case for "padding" his countrymen and asked for the maximum sentence of six months.

It was brought out that the defendant solicited the case of Ralph M. Masch, charged with assault and battery, in a dangerous position, for Alfred W. Wadsworth, former assistant clerk of the East Cambridge District Court.

U. S. Marine officers think the passing of troops and pack trains will bring about stabilized conditions, securing a return to the farms and the reopening of stores.

MOTHER SAVES BOY IN FIRE AT REVERE

Through blinding smoke a five-year-old boy was rescued by his mother today while a neighbor made her way to the street with difficulty as fire raged through the three-family house at No. 45 Highland avenue, Revere.

Mrs. Russell Cohen, after depositing Irving, the son, in the arms of neighbors, collapsed.

Meanwhile Mrs. Sadia Vorobich, tenant on the top floor, staggered out of the smoke filled building.

The house is located in the "three-decker" section of Revere. At the height of the fire the first floor Officer Michael Dineen of the Revere police dashed through the smoke and ran the gamut of streams from six hoses to rescue a 7,000 cluster of diamonds kept in a china closet of the Vorobich apartment on the third floor. He was cut on the right hand when he was forced to smash the glass of the locked closet to get the contents.

Chief Thomas J. McCarthy, realizing the danger, sounded a second alarm, calling every piece of apparatus in the city to the blaze.

As the blaze gained headway, the new $12,000, a six-story, recent storm center of City Council activities, involving the appointment of six men to run it, was called into play. The new place proved its value in getting to the upper part of the house.

The fire is believed to have started in the rear of the first floor, unoccupied.

Mrs. Cohen first smelled smoke as it drifted into her apartment. She hurriedly called Mrs. Vorobich and the two started to investigate when they were met with a rush of smoke from the first floor.

Irving Cohen was asleep in a room off the Cohen kitchen and the mother, with clothes over her mouth and that of her son, fought her way to the rear hall, where the smoke drove her back. Dashing to the front of the house, she managed to grasp her way down.

The loss was estimated at $2,500. With the discovery of five cans, believed to contain inflammable liquid, Edward Horigan, State officer assigned to the investigation of Fall River, Feb. 1 (A.P.)—Three units of the four comprising the Stevens Mills of this city started operation this afternoon when striking weavers who had been out since January 23 returned.

LOMASNEY IN NEW FIGHT ON LODGE GATES

A continuation of his attack on the plan of the State Art Commission for memorial gates on the State House grounds to the late Henry Cabot Lodge was made today at a hearing before the legislative committee on State administration by Representative Martin Lomasney, chairman of the West End.

After paying a tribute to the senator's memory, Lomasney pleaded:

"I hope, as I said before, that you won't give him the gates. He's dead. If you put Lodge on a gate, God help you next Fall."

Chairman Charles E. Gross of the Art Commission informed the members that the gate and wall proposed is not on the location of old Hancock avenue, as was charged at the last hearing, but 115 feet away from that site.

Cyrus Dalila, another member of the Art Commission, said that something of a decorative quality should be given to the memorial part taken care of by a host or relief.

He started the committee by saying the "Lodge" was not an Adonis in appearance, and that a life size statue would not be a "handsome adornment" to the State House grounds.

Lomasney jumped to his feet and denounced Dalila for belittling in such remarks as "Adonis" in referring to "Lodge."

U. S. BLOCKED BRITAIN, SAYS ADMIRAL

Washington, Feb. 1 (U.S.S.)—Great Britain would be the present mistress of the seas if American delegates at the tripartite naval arms limitation conference had accepted her proposals, Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones today told the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Detailing experiences as an American delegate at the Geneva treaty, Admiral Jones declared the British plan to limit naval strength was "unreasonable."

"If the United States had accepted her terms she would always rule the seas, because the plan provided for ships which would be of great value to her and little value to us," he said. He told the committee he saw no prospect of the tripartite conference with Great Britain and Japan being resumed.

There is little prospect of any world disarmament conference before delegates reasonable for the second Washington conference in 1921, he said.

Many great United States ships are a few months away from being built in Boston America's "classified" at the classification 1921.

UNFORBIDDEN FRUIT

By WARNER FABIAN

Do you remember the public furor that greeted the novel, "FLAMING YOUTH"? It gave our language a new phrase, but it did far more than that. It opened our eyes to the fact that modern youth was already in complete revolt. Who is Warner Fabian, anyway? Some say he is a prominent physician, others, an already famous author writing under a nom de plume. Whoever he is (and we are as much in the dark as you are) he has just written for SMART SET, a fascinating and dramatic story of life and love in a Girl's College—a searching study of modern young women who are as real and lovable as your own sweetheart. Begin UNFORBIDDEN FRUIT in March SMART SET.

HAM AND EGGS A LA LOVE

Being broke in gay Paree is worse than being in Heaven without wings. So you can imagine how tough it was on these three buddies of the A.E.F., without a sou in their breeches, when they were irresistibly drawn into the swanky Café Conde by the flashing, flirtatious, black eyes of a beautiful French Man'selle. You will simply bubble with laughter as you read how American resourcefulness won the day, because "cats" and the heart of the young French beauty.

THOU SHALT NOT
Are we in danger of a return to Puritanism? The world today has us all guessing. Modern life is a complicated puzzle—a hodge-podge of liberty and license, of reform and abuse. We think differently, talk differently, act differently, live differently. Is the pendulum about to swing to the other extreme? Shall we—should we—go back to the days of Puritan prudery, kill-joy repression and stern "thou-shalt-nots." Read what Fannie Hurst, the famous novelist has to say about modern manners and morals (as expressed to May Cerf) in March SMART SET.

Also in March SMART SET—TWO MORE TRUE-LIFE SERIALS—"Unlucky Love" and "Crusible of Youth."

SIX MORE TRUE-LIFE STORIES—"Spoiled," "The Man in the Next Room," "Oh, What a Legacy!" "Flying a Kite," "The Most Precious Thing," and "The Enchanted Kiss."

TWELVE MORE TRUE-LIFE FEATURES—by Irvin S. Cobb, Judge Charles A. Oberwager, Helen Rowland, O. O. McIntyre, T. Howard Kelly, Elmer Clive, John Held, Jacqueline van Til and Aleck Smart, four pages of photographs of stage and screen stars and four pages of "Fun from the Films."

PUBLISH 'DRUNK DRIVER' NAMES, FULLER'S PLEA

The suggestion that names of motorists whose licenses are revoked for drunkenness or other reasons be published was made by Governor Fuller today at a luncheon at the Parker House for the presentation of trophies of the Governor's Safety Committee.

The Governor announced the titles of Lawrence and Pitchburg and the town of Norwood were the successful competitors in the safety contest, and to the other communities taking part he offered his hearty appreciation and the hope that the work will continue.

"I believe a great many people would be impressed with the notification and embarrassment that would be theirs if their names were published in the papers," said the Governor, referring to persons whose licenses have been revoked.

He added that newspaper publicity has a greater deterring effect in preventing crime and misbehavior.

Man From Alaska Out $13 Before Police Stop Game

Showered by three police inspectors, who sensed something wrong, two alleged confidence men were arrested today, charged with fleeing William Noel of Fairbanks, Alaska, on his first visit to the Hub in ten years. They gave their names as Harry Barely and Alfred Lewis.

Noel told police he met Barely as he stepped from a train at the North Station and was invited for a walk. They met Lewis and were then seen by the police.

A matching game was stopped after Noel had lost $12. The three were taken to headquarters, together with a roll of newspaper tied up to resemble money.

Governor Fuller said he would like to review the splendid efforts by each city and town taking part in the safety movement, but found it impossible. He said 18 cities and towns had a lower accident record during the contest. Paul River, though not a winner, held second place in the first group, he stated, and won its reduction of nearly 7 per cent, with a safety campaign that deserved honorable mention. In the second group, Leominster, also in second place, got its reduction of more than 24 per cent, by a continuous effort to make highway safer.

New Plymouth Judge
Governor Fuller today appointed Elmer L. Briggs of Plymouth as Justice of the Third District Court of Plymouth to take the place of Judge Harry B. Davis, resigned.

ROBERT BURNES FURNITURE MAN DIES IN FLORIDA

Dispatches from Fort Myers, Fla., to Boston relatives today told of the death of Robert M. Burnes, furniture dealer, big game hunter and expert trap shooter, with many records to his credit.

Death was due to a general breakdown which began with a stroke in British East Africa a few months ago when he was there with Joseph Lilly of Des Moines, Ia., on a big game hunt.

Because of the stroke he was R. M. Burnes unable to do much hunting. He returned in the Fall after being in East Africa five months.

Mr. Burnes was a member of the furniture company of Burnes Brothers, Hyde Park. His home was in Gloucester.

Mr. Burnes was 49 years of age, and is survived by his wife, Emma, and son, Harry N., both of whom were with him at the time of death. Mr. Burnes was a widely-known member of Boston Athletic Associa-

Sues 25 Years After Trolley Hit Him, But Jury Can't Agree

Springfield, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—An agreement was reported in Superior Court today after ten hours' deliberation by a jury that heard the case of Charles Collins of Holyoke, who sought damages from the Holyoke Street Railway Company for an accident that occurred twenty-five years ago when he was three years old and was struck by a car.

Collins said that he learned of his right to sue after no less a period while studying for bar examinations.

Before opening a place of business in Hyde Park he conducted a furniture store in Central square, Cambridge, for many years.

ASK NANTASKET HOTEL BE TAKEN FROM BEACH

Tearing down the Nantasket Hotel, a three-story wooden structure, owned by the Metropolitan District Commission, and devoting the space to parking purposes was advocated at a hearing today before the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs.

Charles V. Nickerson, chairman of the full board of selectmen, said that the movement of traffic would be facilitated and an unobstructed view of the ocean provided if the hotel is removed.

While Chairman Davis B. Keniston of the Metropolitan District Commission did not oppose the removal of the building, he pointed out that the building, bought for $115,000 in 1915, yields $25,000 a year in rent.

SOLONS FOR 'LIBERALIZED DIVORCE LAWS' IN R. I.

Providence, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The more laws of Rhode Island should be liberalized, rather than restricted, according to a report made to the General Assembly today by a special committee appointed last year to study them. The committee finds there is no popular demand for changes, and that the real call for any change comes from clergymen, theorists, and uplifters who deplore divorces as an evil and social menace.

It's hard to excuse Dishpan Hands

"Guests arriving—everything perfect except..."

"MY dinner table, set with all my best china for our dinner to Jim's new friends, had never looked prettier. But it made my poor hands look dreadfully coarse by comparison. They simply broadcasted 'Dishpan!'"

"And because I know it's just such little things that others judge us by, I became self-conscious... ill at ease... at my own dinner table."

"Of course it was foolish of me. With Lux always in the house I was still using old-fashioned harsh soap for the dishes. Until that night I had not realized just how pitifully rough and red it made my hands look."

"Now I use Lux for all my dishes. And for cleaning, too! My hands no longer are reddened and coarse. I'm really PROUD now of my dinner-table hands."

Many household soaps—flakes, chips and cakes—are made in the old-fashioned way. They contain harmful alkali that makes the skin rough.

There is no injurious alkali in Lux. Made by a remarkable process, Lux actually SOOTHES the skin, leaves it a little whiter and softer than before."

Instant, sparkling Lux suds, ready before you ever put your hands in, are so rich and CLEANSING that the dishes seem almost to wash themselves!

BRUINS' PILOT SUFFERS COLLAPSE; QUILTS TEAM

Broken in health, Manager Art Ross has been urged to quit the Bruins and return to his home in Montreal. Although few were aware of the fact, Ross has been ailing all season, and worry over the failure of the Bruins brought about his breakdown.

Since the early weeks of the season, Ross has been irritable. For more than a month he has been haggard and low in spirit. The first signs of Ross' breakdown—appeared during his trouble with Jimmie Herberts. When the latter declared that he did not care for the Bruins never won another game he was through with the "Sailor," but he worried more and more over his departure because the Bruins went into a slump and have only won two of the last ten games.

FABLES IN SLANG

FABLE OF WHAT COLLEGE DID FOR A MODEST WILLIE

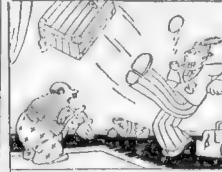

WILBUR WAS AS AND AN ONION WHEN HE WENT TO A VARSITY BUT WHEN HE RETURNED HE HAD A CLONING CASE OF INFLAMMATORY RAH-RAHS.

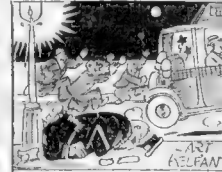

"I'M ALL O' EDGE," SAID WILBUR "I'VE BEEN LATING RAW MEAT AT THE TRAINING TABLE AND DRINKING BLOOD!"

Idest Willie

"WHAT DO THEY TEACH AT YOUR SCHOOL BESIDES MURDER?" ASKED THE FATHER. "FOOTBALL," REPLIED WILLIE, "WHAT MORE COULD YOU ASK!"

AFTER TRIMMING THE POLICE FORCE, CHUCKING A TAXI DRIVER BACK INTO HIS CAB AND DRIVING OFF WITH HIM, EVERY MAN IN TOWN WAS WITH HIM!

MORAL TO REALIZE A BOY'S FULL POSSIBILITIES. PUT HIM IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF CULTURE!

By George Ade

GOOD TIME GUY

HERE, GUY—SINCE YOU'RE GOING TO BE MARRIED, I WANT YOU TO HAVE THESE!

YES, A WEDDING PRESENT—SOME LEAVES I RAKED UP OUT OF THE PAST: LETTERS YOU WROTE TO ME! AND I'LL THANK YOU TO GIVE ME BACK MY ANSWERS—IF YOU KEPT THEM!

Belated Information

CRIMMINY CRICKETS, MARY, NO USE FEELING THIS WAY! I LIKE YOU AND I LIKE CAROLINE—ESPECIALLY AFTER THE WAY SHE GOT MY HOME BACK FOR ME, AND ALL!

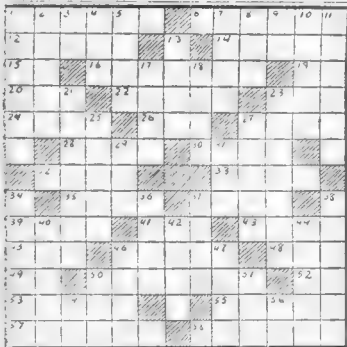

SHE GOT YOUR HOME BACK, INDEED! IF I HADN'T SEEN THE RAILROAD PRESIDENT AND PLEADED WITH HIM NOT TO USE YOUR PLACE AS A DEPOT SITE, SHE COULDN'T HAVE LIFTED A FINGER—MUCH LESS YOU!

THINK THAT OVER, GUY! YOUR GRATITUDE WAS MISAPPROPRIATE—BUT IT'S TOO LATE TO DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT!

A dark, high-contrast image showing a person standing on a horizontal line, possibly a tightrope or a ledge, against a light background. The person is a small silhouette in the center, with their arms slightly out. The background is a light, textured surface, and the foreground is a dark, solid area. The overall effect is dramatic and minimalist.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.

3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

North Shore, "Exclusive" No Longer, Will Try Advertising

Home from a 10,000-mile journey South and West, in the course of which he was particularly impressed by the co-operative spirit shown by Californians, Mr. E. R. Grabow, Swampscott hotel man, calls upon North Shore interests to begin an organized drive for tourists.

Mr. Grabow suggests a $30,000 fund, to begin with, and already ten hotels have subscribed more than half of it. Inasmuch as the appeal is directed to ALL business interests the remainder will be raised with little difficulty.

Secretary Lawrence J. Hart of the Gloucester Chamber of Commerce encourages the new movement by telling of the success which has attended similar efforts on the part of the Cape Ann Association.

In the last two years the Cape Ann folk distributed 114,000 booklets and received 7,000 inquiries. They tried the newspapers and got 13,000 inquiries more.

The impression may have got abroad that the North Shore is a bit too "high hat" for what is called the "tourist trade." If that belief is prevalent printers' ink will help to cure it. The North Shore men are making no mistake in their "publicity" venture, as men in similar lines of business in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, as well as on Cape Cod, can tell them.

Always on Time

A Boy Who Will "Make Someone a Good Husband"

A thirteen-year-old boy who was graduated last week from one of the grammar schools of Providence appears to have established the city record for attendance.

In seven and one-half years he was not absent a single day.

Nor was he late even once.

The dispatch says nothing about Aram's scholastic standing, but if he has the making of an even fair rewrite man we can give him the name of a city editor who will be glad to welcome him when he is graduated from Brown. The hours are few and the salary comfortable.

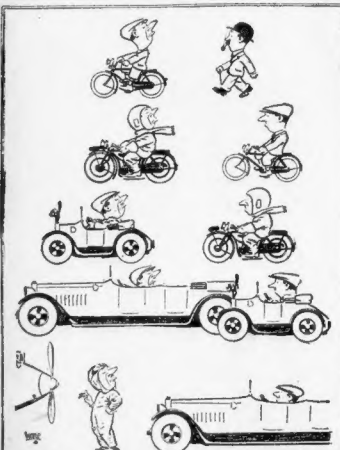

Such a persistent fellow is more likely to take to banking, however, or become the president of an insurance company or the head of a chain of stores.

This is a boy who for his own protection will have to aim high. Should he be content to march along in the big parade of merely ordinary folk we can see him fifteen years from now getting up at 6 every morning, without the aid of an alarm clock, to start the fire and get the breakfast ready for wifey.

Consider nothing below the presidency of a bank, Aram, and stay in bed until 7.

Somebody on Whom We Can Look Down

Most of Us CRAVE That, Most of Us HAVE It

DEGREES OF CONTEMPT. USEFUL TO THE HUMAN RACE

This clever picture, showing various degrees of self-esteem, superiority and contempt for the inferior, published by the able and brilliant Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News, tells its story plainly enough.

Human beings want to LOOK DOWN on somebody below them. The man, on his little leg-propelled bicycle, sneers at the man walking the hard pavement. The man with a motorcycle despises the bicycle rider as the man with the smallest kind of an automobile despises the motorcycle man. The man whose car has a dozen cylinders and a long wheel-base despises the owner of the little car. And, finally,

HUMAN LIFE EVER IS SACRED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SOMETIME ago a shipyard worker in England was acquitted of the charge of murder.

His child had been suffering from tuberculosis and gangrene. Doctors said even if she had not been killed she would have died of the disease in a few hours. Her father drowned her in the bathtub.

The judge held that if this poor child had been an animal instead of a human being, so far as there was anything blameworthy in the man's action in putting an end to the sufferings, he would actually have been punished if he had not done so.

We all sympathize with this father, who was probably frantic over seeing his child suffer and we have no disposition to criticize the action of the jury.

The act, however, must not be taken by itself, but, as we live under a reign of law, attention should be paid to its value as a precedent. And to make it a law that a parent, or anyone else, should be justified in taking life is not good.

In all the welter of discussion about the moral ability of acts, one thing is clear, and that is the sacredness of human life. To put the power of taking human life into any other hands than the State would be dangerous.

Moreover, in spite of all indications, a man who seems hopelessly ill may get well. Instances have been reported of marvelous recoveries. That is another reason why no individual should decide when life shall cease.

Many of us are convinced that even the State has no right to take life and are opposed to capital punishment. If the State itself cannot remove a human being from this earthly sphere, how much less ought a man to be justified in doing so!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

In truth, there is no such thing as a selfish and full when God has given, with soaring hand, as much as is enough. —Hawthorne.

Revenge is sweeter than life itself. —Juvenal.

Those who seek for much are left.

DEAN WILLIAM RICE of Tufts Dental School has been given the 1928 award of the Rhode Island Dental Society for his contribution to dental education and his high attainments. Dr. Rice has long been a leader in progressive movements in dentistry and has given much time and effort to dental societies. He recognized the Tufts Dental School during the war, is past president of the Massachusetts Dental Society and a fellow of the American College of Dentists.

From Danbury, Conn., a Bostonian writes about the activities of the Americanization bureau there. The director, Rev. Elliott H. Barber, who has held several years in Boston, reports that his department gave 60 persons advice in regard to naturalization. Two hundred and thirty-eight more were given advice in immigration affairs, 18 in employment, 22 in financial matters.

During the year Rev. Mr. Barber wrote 121 naturalization papers, 21 miscellaneous papers and made 41 addresses to a total audience of 5,000 people.

Frank L. Tibbatts of Summer street, Somerville, represents one quarter of the total number of men in his profession. Besides Mr. Tibbatts there are exactly three other men in the country who are in his profession. The uncompetitive business is that of bank vault engineer. Mr. Tibbatts, known to Tufts men, is vice-president of a downtown engineering concern and knows his three competitors personally.

Speed the Boon

America's Debt of Honor to Gold Star Mothers Is Urgent

The House Military Affairs Committee at Washington did well when it unanimously favored the bill to enable Gold Star Mothers to visit American war cemeteries in Europe.

Both houses of the Congress should speed the bill with the same cordiality.

No debt of honor accruing from the war has quite the urgency of this. The graciousness of the measure outweighs its slight cost a thousand fold.

War's cruellest loss is levied upon the mother whose son is taken, never to return. Her's is an anguish supreme.

Since it was not feasible or wise to bring all our war dead home, the very least our rich nation can do in acknowledgment of maternal grief is to give the boon of a personal visit to the resting place where mother love makes a sublime shrine.

Looking Down

The air pilot views with overwhelming contempt the owner of the biggest automobile, rolling dismally along the ground.

You might look at this picture and say, "What a dismal thing is human nature; how much envy, how much nobility. How low look the creatures be that find satisfaction only when there is somebody below them that they can despise!"

But from this picture, as from everything in life, we learn about the wisdom of Providence.

We are wound up at birth with certain desires, all of them NECESSARY, all of them helping us on, improving the race to which we belong.

And our desire for somebody to look DOWN upon is one of the most useful of all our desires, next to the three great instincts of self-preservation, parentage and ambition.

This picture can be listed under the word, "Ambition." It is because man wants to be above somebody else that he WORKS himself up. It is because he wants to be able to look DOWN upon somebody that he himself strives to go HIGHER.

The savage chief killed the lion, that he might brag and look down upon other savages that didn't know how to kill lions.

The savage chief's lady put a piece of bone through her nose and another through each ear. That was the best she could do in the way of superiority.

The nobles and kings of ancient times built magnificent palaces and paid great artists to make fine pictures and statues for them, that they might seem important and look down on others.

This generation gets the benefit in artistic education.

The little six-year-old boy looks down on his four-year-old sister and tells her she is too weak to do the things that he does. That sounds very silly, but it is. But it is part of the general "windup" with which Providence originally set us going, and which keeps us all wiggling and striving to do a little better, until the grave gets us, and others have a chance to look down on us, be we great or be we small.
